A RATIONAL VIEW OF ANNEXATION.

The Idaho Avalanche, of all the newspapers of that Territory, discusses the annexation question dispassionately. It says:

"Let us look at the true condition of affairs, Idaho, we may say, is out of debt. We will also say that one part of the Territory wants to be annexed to Washington. If the people of the North succeed in having the pan-handle cut off the frying-pan, then Idaho will be smaller in population, area and wealth. Should the northern counties be annexed to Washington, the wealth of the Territory would be decreased about one-fifth, and the population also, allowing our territory to now have 100,000 inhabitants, which she has not. It is true that we would have to assist in paying Nevada's debt, but would the tax be heavier than it is now. Now, as to Idaho skinning and bruising her knuckles knocking at the doors of Congress for admission in a few years hence, the man or men who think that within a few years Idaho will have population enough to gain admission into the Union, or even hope to do so, must have an imagination of extraordinary Missouri horse power. Dakota has a population of about 500,000 and yet she pleads in vain for admission into the Union. Idaho cannot hope for admission then until she has at least that population, until a change shall come over the present opinion of the Congress of the United States. It will be a score of years before Idaho's population reaches 500,000. In the mean time, we will as in the past, be governed by such officials as may be sent from East here. Our Governors, Judges, etc., will be appointed by the President, and we will have no voice in electing a President. On the other hand, if annexed to Nevada, we would at once be entitled to all the privileges of a State. Our taxes would be no higher than they are now, and in all probability a railroad would be constructed from Winnemucca to Boise City."

To this the Silver State replies:

Nevada is not, as the Avalanche supposes, overburdened with debt. The $330,000 bond which it issued for money borrowed from the school fund, is irredeemable, and, unless the courts decide that a bond of that character is not legal, it will only have to pay the interest, which is four per cent per annum, into the school fund, and that will be used for educating the youth of the State. It will be mutually beneficial to Nevada and Idaho to have them annexed, as the two will make a prosperous State, with no conflicting interests, and of which its citizens can justly feel proud, while, unless they are united, it will be difficult for Nevada to maintain a State Government, and Idaho will remain a Territory for at least another quarter of a century.

THE LIBRARY WRANGLE.

The Adams-Laughton-Gallup rumpus is still being kept up in the Courts.

There are several odd things about it. Adams deposed Laughton for not having a bond filed; yet he held the same office for four years and filed no bond. Adams was legally correct but we apprehend that had a Democrat been Lieutenant Governor he would not have taken the same course.

The Board of Commissioners allowed a bill for Gallup of $150 a month. Controller Hallock very properly refused to draw a warrant as the law allows no such segregation of salary as the Board attempted. Now another thing that strikes us as odd is that Adams found anybody on the Board beside himself who would stand in with him in this scheme to go outside the law to jam a Republican official. Was it Dornier or Davenport who stood in? We think that every Republican will be interested in knowing.

Ahead as U. S. A.

Yesterday the Enterprise and several other Pacific Coast papers published a telegraphic dispatch under the head of "A Startling Statement," etc., which informed the reader that President Cleveland was taking no exercise, and liable to die of apoplexy at any moment.

This piece of "startling intelligence" was published nearly a week ago by the APPEAL from its special Washington correspondent. This shows that the APPEAL's correspondent is a live man, beating Jay Gould's slow telegraph by a week. He will furnish letters from the National Capital during the Legislative session, and can always be depended on to beat the telegraph.
